WHAT PERIOD TO VISIT

Anytime! Haydom is situated on altitude on top of the Great Rift, which makes the temperature very constant.

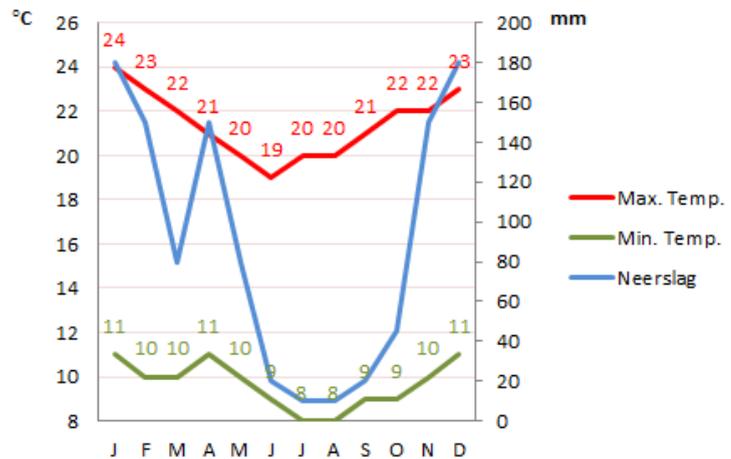

Use this image as a reference for rainy seasons. This is the temperature in Ngorongoro where it can be chilly.

For Haydom you could add 7 degrees to the temperature. It can be warm in the sun, but not sweaty!

If you are planning to visit the 'great migration' in the Serengeti, be prepared that the animals move according to the season.

A long but thin pair of trousers for men and either trousers or long skirt (below knees) for women is perfect when visiting the hospital or church. A short sleeved T-shirt or blouse is perfect for all occasions. When on safari or on the guesthouse premises you can wear anything you like, like short trousers. You can bring one long sleeved shirt or sweater for the evenings.

Medical wears white scrubs.

NATIONAL PARKS

TARANGIRE NATIONAL PARK

Tarangire National Park is an astonishing park, known for the large herds of elephants. Many animals visit the park during the dry season in search for water of the Tarangire river. Great baobab trees make the area beautiful.

LAKE MANYARA NATIONAL PARK

Lake Manyara National Park is not as known as the other parks in the Northern circuit, but unique on its own. Stretched alongside the Great Rift, with beautiful surroundings. Highlights are the numerous water birds and monkeys in the small forest. If you are really lucky you might find lions relaxing in a tree.

NGORONGORO CONSERVATION AREA

Ngorongoro Conservation Area is a must-see. It is not a national park, because Masai live inside the area. The crater is probably the result of the collapse of a volcanic mountain. It is possible that this mountain was even higher than Kilimanjaro! The crater is an oasis with water and grass for all the animals. A chance to see lion, leopard and even a black rhino.

SERENGETI NATIONAL PARK

Serengeti, the romantic park with endless plains. That is exactly what the Masaai word 'Siringet' means. You reach this enormous park through the Ngorongoro Conservation Area. The northern part of the Serengeti is part of Kenya. The main tourist attraction of the Serengeti is 'the great migration' where enormous herds of zebra and wildebeest travel through the park in search for green grass.

From December to April is the best time to see the animals, as the animals are in the eastern part of Serengeti bordering the Ngorongoro conservation area. More than 10.000 animals will get offspring around February. Because this part of the park is the easiest accessible, it is also most visited and can be busy. April and May is considered rainy season, which comes with lower pricing.

May to June the wildebeest gather in the south to prepare their journey to the north through the 'western corridor'. If the dry season starts, around June-July and there is a lack of food they start to move. One of the ultimate sights which is difficult to time is their massive crossing of the Grumeti river, where many of them get eaten by the crocodiles.

In August the wildebeest cross the Mara river to Kenya, after which they are more difficult to see. Mobile camps try to reach this northern area. It is still considered a good time to see predators on the southern plains, as they are non-migrating, territorial animals.

End October to mid-November the wildebeest will move south again, through the Mara area to the Lobo area reaching the Ndutu area close to the Ngorongoro conservation area.
